Community Christian Children's Choir On Its Way
To Nashville with help of Chick-fil-A

As a participant in the 2009 Crossroads Children's Chorus Festival the Community Christian Children's Choir is on its way to Nashville, TN to perform at the renowned Grand Ole Opry House! The Children's Choir held a recent promotion at the local Chick-Fil-A at Hamilton MarketPlace, Route 130 to kick-off its fundraising efforts for its trip to the Festival. Raising funds to defer travel expenses, the children of the CCCC sang for the customers who came to the restaurant the night of July 16th. Next July 11 – 17, 2009, approximately 20 singers from the children's choir and Central New Jersey will be traveling to Nashville, TN to perform in the 2009 Crossroads Children's Chorus Festival, a leading national chorus festival. Additional fundraisers are planned for the future.

“To be invited to this festival is a great honor for this choir and these kids,” said Pat Weitz, director of the Community Christian Children's Choir. “We have a lot of work to do but everyone involved in the CCCC is excited and ready to work hard to get us to Nashville, both musically and financially. We hope that everyone who has heard the choir and appreciates their wonderful music will come out to our fundraisers and really support us now.”

The Community Christian Children's Choir is the children's section of the multi-denominational Community Christian Choir. With over 130 members from over 50 congregations in the Central New Jersey region, the choir performs free of charge benefit concerts for local charities. For more information on the choir and the CCCC's drive toward Nashville,
